3 SEPA Countries or territories outside the EU and the EEA

As resolved by the EPC Plenary between March 2006 and December 2013, Switzerland, Monaco, the French collectivities of Mayotte¹ and Saint-Pierre-et-Miquelon, as well as San Marino had become part of the geographical scope of the SEPA Schemes.

Additionally, the British Crown Dependencies of Guernsey², Jersey and the Isle of Man were included within the geographical scope of the SEPA Schemes with effect from 1 May 2016.

¹ The French overseas territory of Mayotte subsequently changed its status and became an outermost region of the European Union on 1 January 2014.

² Reference is made to the island of Guernsey.

With effect from 1 March 2019, the Principality of Andorra as well as the Vatican City State / Holy See will be part of the geographical scope of the SEPA Schemes.

As a result of Brexit, by decision of the EPC board on the 7 March 2019, the United Kingdom is set to remain part of the SEPA geographical scope, as of the 1 February 2020.

Eligible local institutions from these countries or territories are permitted to adhere to the SEPA Schemes in accordance with the relevant EPC adherence procedure.³

It is assumed that legislation adopted for the EEA (including Regulation (EU) No 260/2012⁴) only fully and directly applies to payment transactions between institutions located within the EU and the EEA (including the territories under category 3 above).

For non-EEA SEPA countries, the EPC – after their inclusion within the SEPA geographical scope, provides for a periodical review process, aiming at assessing the level of continuous compliance with the relevant legislation applicable.

4 EU Territories under Article 355 of the EU Treaty

There are a number of territories that are considered to be part of the EU and others in which the Treaties do not apply or only partially apply, according to Article 355 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union (TFEU).

Those territories where the provisions of the Treaties shall apply in their entirety are part of SEPA. Please refer to Article 355 (1), (3) and (4) of Article 355 of the TFEU in this context for those territories where the provisions of the Treaties shall apply in their entirety.
